

A. P. A. BOARD WAITS
FOR COURT RULINGWAR EXPECTED TOLAY HAS BEEN POSTPONED.

All Members of the Omaha Police Force Have Been Instructed, However, to Bow the Knee Or Take The Chances of Being Discharged.

Omaha, Aug. 14.—The A. P. A. police board at 1 p. m. decided to wait for the supreme court decision and to have no violence.

Omaha, Aug. 14.—No demonstration was made yesterday in the police row, but plans are all matured for the A. P. A. board to attempt to enforce its authority at 10 o'clock this morning. With this object in view the A. P. A. board has served the following notice on the old board:

"Omaha, Aug. 13.—Although you are already apprised of the fact, we hereby formally notify you that we have been appointed fire and police commissioners of the city of Omaha under the law of 1895, and pursuant to that law we have filed our bonds in the sum of $5,000 each, and the same has been approved by the city council of said city, according to law, and we have filed our official oaths with the city clerk, and in all respects have duly qualified and are recognized by the city council and also by the court decision rendered by M. R. Hopewell. Therefore, we hereby notify you that, having duly qualified and been recognized, as before set out, and having assumed the duties of said office, we name Wednesday, Aug. 14, at 10 o'clock a. m., as a suitable time to receive from you the records, property and rooms that properly belong to us as the lawful board of fire and police commissioners."

Meantime the old commissioners will not change their course, but go on enforcing the city jail and preparing to resist an assault. This is taken as certain evidence that a conflict will result since the old board will not surrender.

One plan of the A. P. A. board is this: The new board will organize a new police force and put new men on every beat in the city. The old officers will arrest them and take them before Police Judge Berke, who is an A. P. A., and who will at once release them, holding that the new men are real officers instead of being men who are impersonating officers. As soon as the A. P. A. men are released they will bring heavy damage suits against the officers making the arrests, including their bonds-men in the suit. So far as the possession of the records of the fire and police commission is concerned, the A. P. A. claims to care nothing. Individual conflicts are likely to occur when one police officer arrests another.

The police commissioners now in authority replied to the manifesto and declared that while they deplored a possible conflict they were legally conducting the affairs of the police department of Omaha and that if the new commission disputes their authority they have recourse in the courts to get possession.

The members of the fire and police forces have all received letters to visit the office of the new board and recognize its authority or be discharged. A few members of the forces will probably do so, but the majority will ignore the letters and act under the present commission. Chief of Police White replied to the new commission refusing to recognize any authority but that established by the state law.

While everything on the surface seems quiet, there is a strong undercurrent of excitement. There is a feeling, however, that the new board will not carry out its threat of putting a new force on duty to-day.

In the event of any disturbance, the charter constitutes the mayor of the city chief in control of the police, his authority overriding that of the police commissioners. Both forces will, therefore, be under the mayor's control. Efforts are being made by the best element of the city to bring about a peaceable termination of the quarrel.

The other trades which are restless are the vestmakers, pantsmakers, knee pantsmakers, children's jacket-makers, shirtmakers, and cloakmakers. In all, the organized men and women number about 40,000, and there are as many more unorganized employed in the minor branches of the trade who cannot work when the others are idle.

SENATOR VEST ON SILVER.

Thinks the Advocates of the White Metal Will Triumph Eventually.

Carlsbad, Aug. 14.—"The silver question will never be dropped in America until free coinage is successful," said Senator George G. Vest of Missouri here yesterday, replying to questions put to him concerning the Missouri, Mississippi and Iowa democratic conventions. "The people in the east," he continued, "believe it will be dropped as business re-vives, but the overwhelming sentiment in all the west and south is in favor of free coinage. I believe it will surely be adopted in time." In regard to the prospects of an international monetary conference, Senator Vest remarked: "It is generally conceded that the other powers are awaiting the action of England, and from all accounts England will not alter the gold standard." Senator Vest is greatly improved in health, and the doctors say he has no serious ailment.

Canadian Statesman Thinks the Conservative Party Is Doomed.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 14.—The Hon. Charles Langellier, ex-secretary of the province of Quebec, Canada, arrived here en route to the convention of French-Canadians at Riverside, R. I. He expressed himself on the political situation in Canada as follows: "The political situation in Canada is in a state of chaos and, judging from the popular sentiments expressed by the people throughout the dominion, the conservative party is on the eve of an overthrow and a general election, which must come off within the next twelve months, will most certainly result in the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, assuming the reins of state."

Five Lodged in Jail.

Fort Smith, Ark., Aug. 14.—Rufus Buck, Sam Sanson, Meo, Judy, Lucky Davis and Albert Stake were lodged in the United States jail here to-day. All are young men who have in the last ten days made a criminal record for themselves which is almost without parallel in the Indian Territory. They murdered John Garret, a negro deputy marshal of this county, about ten days ago. They are charged with assaulting four women, robbing two stores and holding up three individuals. They robbed a stockman named Calahan and killed a negro boy who was with him.

Railway Union Men Indignant.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—The inscription that has been placed on the monument erected at the Presidio over the graves of four soldiers who were killed in a railroad wreck during the great strike a year ago, is to the effect that the soldiers "were murdered by strikers near Sacramento, Cal., July 11, 1894." Although one striker has been sentenced to death for complicity in the wrecking of the train bearing government troops during the strike, the members of the American Railway union denounce the inscription as false and unjustified.

Coppinger Reports All Quiet.

Washington, Aug. 14.—General Coppinger, who has been at Jackson's Hole with four troops of cavalry, yesterday notified headquarters that he would return eastward, leaving two troops at Jackson's Hole under command of Major Chaffee. St. Louis, Aug. 14.—A deadly assault was made on the levee yesterday. An enraged negro fired a fusillade of bullets into a crowd of passengers and crew of the steamer City of St. Louis. Two white men and two negroes were wounded, one fatally, but none of the passengers was hurt. The wounded are:

Lou Davis, colored, captain of the night watch, shot in the kidneys; will probably die.

Frank Bennett, white, roustabout, artery in arm severed; serious.

John Bell, steward of steamer City of Cairo, lives in Vicksburg, shot in leg; not serious.

William Thomas, colored roustabout, shot in left leg; not serious.

The wounded were sent to the city dispensary. The shooting was the outcome of a fight between the negro, whose name is unknown, and Lou Davis, captain of the watch, while the steamer was lying at Cairo last Sunday, in which the negro was badly wounded and driven from the boat. Exasperated at his defeat and burning for revenge, he boarded a train and arrived here last night. Early this morning he concealed himself behind a pile of freight on the levee and when the steamer arrived and her passengers and crew were moving down the staging to the shore he opened fire, with the above result.

During the terror and excitement among the passengers and crew the would-be murderer escaped and has not been captured.

OUTLAWS CAPTURED.

Good Work of Deputy Marshals in Indian Territory.

Eufaula, I. T., Aug. 14.—Five desperate outlaws were captured in the center of Eufaula at noon yesterday. Heavily armed and appropriately mounted, they rode boldly into town, apparently intent on making a raid and believing that they would receive but little opposition. Their lack of alertness proved their misfortune, for they were quickly surrounded by armed deputies. The officers' drop on them was a complete surprise, and the quintet meekly gave up their arms and submitted to arrest without making the least effort to escape.

Composing the gang are Charles Wilson, Ray Defenbaugh, Joe Bock, Charlie Moore and Coy Shehan. Each is charged with numerous crimes committed in the territory and all are known to be desperate men. Monday last they escaped from the stillwater (O. T.) jail and ever since they have been closely pursued by a determined detachment of deputy marshals.

Innocent Victims of a Shot Fired at a Sheriff in Iowa.

Iowa City, Iowa, Aug. 15.—At the village of Frank Pierce, in Washington township, twelve miles from here, John Smith, in aiding his brother, Dr. George Smith, in an attempt to prevent Sheriff Jones from evicting the latter, discharged a shotgun at the officer's head. The load simply scorched the sheriff's face, but sped across the street and wounded Bessie and Elsie Cupp, aged 5 and 12 respectively, Erick and Herbert Seager, aged respectively 13 and 11, and Charles Peterie, aged 15. Erick Seager and Elsie Cupp are the most seriously hurt, and they may not live. Threats of lynching are made. The sheriff and his deputy arrested both brothers and brought them to Iowa City and placed them in jail here.

Had a Well Under the Foundation.

New York, Aug. 14.—The cause of the collapse of the Ireland building, in which fifteen lives were lost, came to light yesterday, when the workmen engaged in clearing away the debris in the cellar uncovered an old-fashioned well under the foundation. It was situated directly under the center pillar of the structure, the undermining of which precipitated the disaster. The coroner and several building experts examined the well, but would give no opinion on the matter. Another badly mutilated and decomposed body was taken from the ruins and was identified as that of Peter Mareno, an Italian laborer. Only one more man known to have been in the building is missing, and it is expected that his body will be found there.

Not an Easy Triumph for France.

London, Aug. 14.—Colonel Charles R. Shervinton, formerly commander-in-chief of the Malagasy army, in an interview said the French had before them the greatest physical obstacles they have yet encountered, including the fever. Hitherto, the Colonel said, the Hovas have been purposely passive, although their artillery and machine guns outnumbered those of the French, and with 50,000 drilled men, armed with breech-loading rifles, their position, in his opinion, ought to be impregnable.

MANIA FOR WRECKING TRAINS.

Crime of a Fourteen-Year-Old Boy Near Bowling Green, Ohio.

Bowling Green, Ohio, Aug. 14.—Last Saturday the section hands on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad found some ties piled on the track near Farnham, a flag station near Desher. This discovery barely averted a catastrophe, as a crowded passenger train, bound north, was about due, and the obstructions were placed in such a manner that a wreck would have resulted.

Two years ago a boy named Bert Stanton, whose parents reside in that vicinity, was arrested for opening a switch at that point. He was sent to the reform school, but was paroled last January. Since then he has resided at home. Suspicion at once fastened on him, and he was placed under arrest. He at first stoutly denied his guilt, but has confessed. Stanton is but 14 years old, yet he seems possessed of a mania to destroy railway trains. He is a mechanical genius and can make keys that will unlock almost any kind of a lock.

She was pursued by the tramp, who caught her in the yard and threw her down and choked her. She struggled so strenuously that she finally got away from him and ran to her brother's house. Later a posse was organized and a vigorous search was made for the negro, who will receive summary justice if he is captured.

The meeting was not held at night, some of the aldermen being afraid there would be too great a crowd.

The syndicate's action is taken as conclusive evidence that it proposes to keep the reserve above the $100,000,000 point, according to the spirit of its contract with the government.

Slow Work in the Durrant Case.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—The objection of business men to do jury duty in the case of Theodore Durrant, charged with the murder of Blanche Lamont, and the alleged bias of those who are ostensibly willing, has made the work of securing jurors exceedingly difficult. ## AT SPRING VALLEY.

Further Race Troubles Between Miners Not Looked For.

Princeton, Ill., Aug. 14.—Up to noon yesterday fifty-seven colored miners had gone to work in the mines at Spring Valley who were never employed there before. The county authorities say that if this condition prevails a short time it will solve the problem of bringing the guilty parties to justice, a thing that so far has not been attempted. They say that as soon as the colored population nearly equals that of the Italians the negroes will point out those who drove them from their homes and fired upon them, and that successful prosecutions will then be possible. It is believed that it will be a long time before there will be further general disturbances in Spring Valley of any kind.

Minneapolis Bicycle Meet.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 14.—A small crowd attended the opening day's races of the national circuit meet of the League of American Wheelmen, under the auspices of the Minneapolis Limited Cycle club. ## Was Insolvent Before the Failure.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Aug. 14.—Judge O'Neill rendered a decision yesterday that the Commercial bank had been insolvent for months before it closed and that all depositors who could identify their money could recover the same. The court holds further that the bank was unlawfully conducted and that the officers are liable for violation of the law and the stockholders for losses. As the stock is largely distributed here the prospect of an assessment created quite a stir.

He left several letters, in one of which he admitted his guilt in all the offenses attributed to him, with the exception of one.

NO DUNNING CASE IN ROCK COUNTY

A. O. WRIGHT FINDS THE NEW ASYLUM A MODEL.

Daughter Called to Account—Several Patients Charged to Rock Who Should Be Supported By the State At Large or By Other Counties.

Dunning insane asylum has no counterpart in Rock county. Inspector A. O. Wright was sent out here by the state board to make a thorough investigation of the Rock county asylum. He finds it a model.

Several patients supported by Rock county, should be supported by the state at large, he says, and the heating system is not as economical as it might be, but the details of the asylum's management leave nothing to be desired.

This is what he says:

TO THE SUPERINTENDENT AND TRUSTEES OF ROCK COUNTY ASYLUM, GENTLEMEN—I have spent nearly two days at your county asylum, inspecting each meal and seeing the general workings of the institution by night and by day.

1. It is one of the most complete and well arranged small asylums in the United States and is admirably managed. The expense of the building and of maintenance are greater than those of a poor house would be, and the state appropriation is given expressly for that purpose. It is expected that the accommodations and the care will be equal to those in the state hospitals, and this you are now furnishing. You may feel satisfied that you are doing the best that can be done for this class of insane. A greater expense would be needless extravagance, which would not do the patients any good, and you could not have secured the proper care at a much less expense. It should not be forgotten that the kind of buildings and of care which should pass muster as temporary expedients in the earlier days of the county asylum system in this state, while it was still an experiment, cannot now be allowed as a permanent arrangement. Such a temporary arrangement was what Rock county began with. But this has now given place to a permanent asylum, completely separate from the poor house, well constructed, and adequately furnished. Rock county may well be proud of its achievement.

Fuel Costs Too Much.

□ I have been able to discover only one item in which the expense was apparently too great, that is the cost of fuel. The cause of the large amount of fuel consumed is in the heating apparatus. But till this apparatus needs to be replaced it will not be of any practical value to discuss the question whether some other more economical but perhaps less effective heating apparatus should be substituted. It would be foolish now to change it. It is clear however, that double windows on the whole or on the most exposed parts of the building would pay for themselves in one or two years in saving of fuel, and I therefore recommend them.

2. I have examined the capacity of the asylum and find that it contains single rooms and dormitories enough for eighty six men and sixty-six women, or 152 patients in all, as its normal capacity. I find that when crowded you can fill up to the extraordinary capacity of 180. This addition to the number of patients would be made partly by adding two beds in each of the dormitories, which can be done by crowding although it is not to be recommended ordinarily. One of the rooms intended for a hospital could be used for a dormitory with twelve beds, if it should be necessary. The difficulty in this case is that this room would be much more convenient for men than for women, while the surplus of insane in Wisconsin is now men.

Asylum Has a Capacity of 180.

The total extraordinary capacity would then be 180, either 106 men and 74 women, if the hospital room is used for men, or 94 men and 86 women, if it is used for women. The capacity of the dining room and sitting rooms is sufficient for the larger number. I recommend you to use these figures in your reports and in your calculations. You now have 141 patients, 75 men and 66 women, the number having been reduced lately by deaths or discharge. No doubt that number will soon be increased up to the normal capacity, and it is very possible that the pressure for accommodation from the rapid increase of insane in the state may compel the state board to fill up your asylum to its extraordinary capacity. In such a case the fact that you can receive a considerably greater number of men than of women would be a convenience, because the hospitals and asylums are all over crowded on the men's side. However you cannot count on permanently keeping more than 152 patients which is your normal capacity.

I carefully examined all the original commitment papers or copies of such furnished by the state hospitals for patients transferred from them. I find that for about thirty patients you have no papers. The reason of this is that in the early days they were not required and later the hospitals have not always sent copies of the commitment papers with the patients transferred as required by law. I recommend that the superintendents be authorized to incur the small necessary expense to go to the two hospitals and make copies of the papers if such copies cannot be obtained otherwise and that the secure copies or originals of all orders make committing insane direct to the asylum so as to have an original or a copy of the original commitment for every person detained in the asylum. There has been no trouble in this line for some years and there is not likely to be in the future the only question is in regard to insane committed some years ago.

Cases Should Be Charged Elsewhere.

5. The following cases of chargeability ought to be investigated: Henry Lamonda was committed June 25, 1895, from the county jail, and was a tramp. He should doubtless be a state-at-large case. Dennis Trainer, committed December 30, 1886, from the county jail, is a similar case.

John P. Dickinson was a regular soldier and as such was committed, while insane, to the government asylum at Washington, from which he was sent home not recovered. He should be returned to Washington by the state board of control under the statute covering such cases. Alexander Rolfe committed June 12, 1891, from the poor house is evidently a transient having no residence in Rock county or any other county of the state, and therefore should be a state-at-large case.

Ada Pease, transferred from state hospital June 13, 1894, is apparently a state-at-large case. Eliza Scott, a state-at-large case, transferred from the state hospital Feb. 13, 1894, belongs properly in Hungary. If there is a way of sending him back it should be done.

Daughter Has Her Father's Money.

The case of Philip Pentecost is a peculiar one. Being many years a resident of Rock county, and having passed with his wife, he went to Johnson county, Nebraska, and carried on a hardware store. His daughter, Ida B. Pentecost, went out there also and was appointed her father's guardian as appears from a copy of a letter of guardianship issued August 13, 1887. He was admitted here August 24, 1887 without commitment papers, on her promise to pay two dollars per week for his board, only a small part of which has been paid. His life had been dissipated and he was becoming blind and has since grown completely blind. The daughter got possession of the property and is said to be now in Chicago. It seems as if she could be forced to disgorge her booty; at any rate he ought not to be kept here in the asylum any longer without commitment papers. Certainly he can draw no state money.

William F. Sheehan ran away from the state hospital but that institution continued to charge Rock county for his care for about two years while he was absent. Rock county discovered this by his being brought to the county asylum, where he is now, and is now asking to have this erroneous charge refunded.

[Inspector Wright mentions several other cases charged to Rock county that should be charged elsewhere.]

But Two Criminal Insane.

There are two cases here of criminal insane, that is persons who have committed criminal acts while insane. Jerry O'Neal of Crawford county, killed his wife but is said not to be dangerous now. Pat McGuire from Buffalo county, stabbed a man just before he was committed and is thought to be dangerous. The following persons now in the asylum are idiots and according to the rulings of the state board of control cannot draw state money: Catherine Kuipenburg, Lizzie Long, Annie Perry and Sadie Berger.

I saw every patient and made sure that all on the roll were actually present and so far as possible I verified by actual observation and by the reports of those in charge of the patients, the real facts as to the condition. I found scarcely a patient who was disposed to complain or who begged to go home which is a strong evidence that they are treated with wisdom and kindness. No one who has not been familiar with the conditions and the feelings of the insane in other institutions of all kinds can fully realize the advance this implies in the treatment of the chronic insane. All of which is respectfully submitted. A. O. WRIGHT, State Inspector.

OBJECTED TO PAYING WHEEL FARE

Cyclers Has a Hot Argument With a Baggage-man Over the New Regulation.

A Chicago wheelman arrived in the city last evening still warm from arguing the wheel question with a baggage-man before taking his train.

"Instead of taking a one hundred and fifty pound trunk along free" he said, "I have a bicycle weighing twenty-two pounds and yet I must pay for it. I am going to report the matter to the L. A. W."

BRIEF BITS OF LOCAL.

Mr. E. W. Lowell, Janesville, Wis., Dear Sir:—We see from this morning's paper that you have been displaying your ability as an amateur detective and from the success achieved, we think you should be in charge of the department in Chicago. We congratulate you upon having landed you man safely in jail and we hope you recovered the amount he had taken. With best regards, we are faithfully yours, The Michigan Stove Company, R. L. Morley, Associate Manager.

We don't deal in luxuries. You must have clothing, every person uses wearing apparel, our sale this week of summer clothing both in men's and boy's goods is of great interest to you, why let the opportunity pass? We give you more for your large dollar than you usually get. Think it over then come and see us. Frank H. Baack.

The advance sale of tickets for the limited excursion to the romantic Dells of the Wisconsin over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway. Tuesday, August 15th, is evidence that Janesville lads and lasses are going in large numbers and it is probable that the Steamer Dells Queen will contain all Janesville young folks while the other steamer will carry Rockford and Beloit contingents.

This week is the stem winder in summer clothing. We offer every summer suit in the house at cost; thirty men's suits that are the greatest bargains you ever saw, and all the boys' and children's suits we have. This is no joke; you can prove the honesty of our assertions easily. All we wish is for you to come and examine the stock and ask questions. Frank H. Baack.

From present indications the Scotch games on Friday will prove a record breaker. Beloit will be here in full force, to see her favorite sheriff throw or get thrown, and all the other towns and villages within thirty miles are evincing a greater interest this year in this most popular gathering.

"DINNA ye hear the slogan" played by the Royal Scots Pipe Band of Chicago. Don't miss being at the fair grounds promptly at 1 o'clock Friday, if you wish to secure a seat on the grand stand. The program this year is the best ever provided by the Caledonian Society.

Blairtown, Iowa, August 12, 1895. MY DEAR MR. LOWELL, GOOD BY:—Why not buy a uniform? Are you sure Porter did not take any Mrs. Post's Dots No. 50? Wishing you a nice business, yours in Blairtown, F. D. Brown. "S. & C. Manufacturing Co."

Don't get the impression we are too high priced for you, our stock includes the best make of every class of vehicle but that doesn't keep us from reaching you on price, its easy to convince you of this fact, F. A. Taylor.

JAGUARINA and Miss Gordon will give an exhibition of swordsmanship at the Scotch games such as never has been witnessed in this city. Those who fail to attend will miss a rare treat.

On! We're getting there, Willie. No use talking, that large reputation as low priced clothing dealers are coming cur way. This week's sale crowds the mark up. Frank H. Baack.

BLOOMERS BARRED AT GRANGE DANCES

JANESVILLE GIRLS NOT ALLOWED ON THE FLOOR.

Men Didn't Object to the Cycling Costume, But the Ladies Wouldn't Stand It—Wheels as Wedding Presents—Cycling Has Affected Trade.

BLOOMERS have met a rebuff in Rock County. They are all right on bicycles, but they won't go at grange dances. Two Janesville girls who wheeled out to attend a dance in one of the grange halls the other evening came back highly indignant. "A man met us outside," said one, "and told us he didn't believe we would be allowed to dance without skirts. He didn't object to bloomers, himself, he said, but he was very sure the ladies wouldn't stand it." What did we do? We came home just as fast as our wheels could carry us, for fear the town constable might come along and arrest us for wearing men's apparel or some other heinous crime.

ONE of the pleasantest rides to be had in the neighborhood of Janesville is out to Indian Ford via Barker's corner. From Indian Ford, the city of Edgerton is easily reached, while the homeward trip via Lake Koshkonong, Newville, Milton Junction, and Milton takes cyclists through a country abounding in beautiful scenery, making a good days sport and not to long a distance for the average rider.

A GOOD many bicycles seem likely to be thrown back on the hands of dealers this fall, as the installment crowd is composed in great measure of those whose wages give them no money to spare. When they get behind one or two payments the handicap is too heavy to overcome.

INCOMING cyclists report the Janesville Circuit Meet, as being well advertised in surrounding towns, the large lithographs being placed in conspicuous places in the stores and hotels.

YOUNG men who are obliged to have all their money to pay installments on wheels have affected seriously the trade in red neckties, cigars and luxuries of a similar sort this summer.

THE racing board of the Arrow Cycling club expect that local riders will wake up after the circuit meet so that a number of local races can be given before cold weather sets in.

THE Arrow Cycling club house is used but little these warm days and evenings, but the members will soon be coming around, as the days and nights grow colder.

RIDING a wheel about town while the sprinkling wagon is on duty means having one's neck and hair filled with mud.

CYCLES are becoming popular as wedding presents in Rock county.

HERE ARE A FEW "HOSS" NOTES

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD, the horse that had such a hammer and tongs race with Miss Williams here, won the 2:18 class pacing purse at Indianapolis yesterday, after Prairie Lily had captured the first heat. Sir Edwin went in 2:11 here, while his race yesterday was won in 2:10. Prairie Lily, who reeled off a mile in 2:11 here, made her mile in 2:12 at Indianapolis. Aileen, who made Africa go in 2:08 on the Janesville track, was also in the Indianapolis race, but was distanced.

JIMMIE HAGUE, who won the 2:33 class trotting purse here in 2:19, was picked out to win the 2:19 class money at Indianapolis yesterday, but was beaten by Rensselaer Wilkes in 2:12.

The meeting of the Wisconsin Breeders' association at Milwaukee began this afternoon and tomorrow Joe Patchen will go for the world's record.

WARREN P. McHenry's rather erratic flyer, who was distanced here after winning a heat in 2:23, started at Buffalo yesterday, but only got eighth place, Iron Bar winning in 2:14.

JOHN KELLY started East View in the 2:24 trotting class race at Buffalo yesterday, but only got fifth place.

Brief Bits of Fairfield News.

Fairfield, Aug. 13.—Wilson More has been on the sick list for the past two weeks with throat trouble, but is gaining at present writing. Mrs. P. Aclay has been seriously ill for several weeks with little hopes of recovery. Miss Adrian, of the Milwaukee Deaconess Home, gave an interesting address at the church Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Proctor and Miss Cora Spear of Janesville, visited here last week. The Fairfield department store now carries a fine line of furniture. Fairfield extends congratulations to Smithton on its new name and postoffice.

The election of Sunday school officers and teachers will be at the Methodist church this week Friday evening. Quite a delegation from this place attended the ice cream social at W. A. Dalton's last week Wednesday evening. All report a good time. The Allen Grove Epworth League invited the church at this place to join them in a picnic at Delavan Lake Wednesday. The Sherwood family reside at Smithton instead of Fairfield. We have our share of matrimonial alliances without stealing any from other towns.

EVANSVILLE GETS 6000 OF THE M. W. A.

DAY BREAK.

Janesville Woodmen Do Not Turn Out Well and the Band is the Biggest Part of the Procession—How the Day was Spent—Games and Races.

Six thousand Modern Woodmen piled into Evansville this morning and how full they did pack that lively village!

Cars, carryalls, farm wagons. Anything on wheels served. The procession began to string in by five o'clock and eight Evansville had people enough for circus day. Elaborate preparations had been made to handle a crowd, for an advance sale of 4000 railroad tickets made the attendance

Artist and Novelist.

Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, who has won fame both as a novelist and artist, was born in Milton, N. Y., Nov. 19, 1847, and is strong minded enough not to care a fig who knows it. When a mere girl, she gave evidence of possessing considerable talent for art and was sent to New York to study. She was quite successful and soon won high reputation as an illustrator of books. In 1876 she became the wife of Arthur De Wolf Foote, a young mining engineer whose work called him to the mining districts of California and Colorado. The picturesque scenes and interesting people she there encountered are faithfully portrayed in her novels, "A California Mining Town," "The Led Horse Claim," "Cœur d'Alene" and "John Bodewin's Testimony," which are well known to magazine readers everywhere. Like Bret Harte, Mrs. Foote has made the west her literary field, but Harte's west is the west of the forty-niner, and Mrs. Foote's west is the west of today.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1433—John I of Portugal died.
1457—German authorities pronounce this the date of the first printed book's completion.
1783—Thomas Sheridan, father of the orator and dramatist, died.
1806—Park Benjamin, author and editor, born; died 1884.
1838—George Combe, author of "The Constitution of Man," died; born 1788.
1870—Admiral David Glasgow Farragut died; born 1801.
1888—Charles Crocker, railroad king and multimillionaire, died at Monterey, Cal.; born 1829.
1892—Destructive outbreaks in various places by discontented laborers, heavy fighting in east Tennessee, incendiary fires at Buffalo and trouble in Idaho.
1894—John Quincy Adams, son of Charles Francis Adams and grandson of President John Quincy Adams, died at Quincy, Mass.; born 1833.

THE COUNTY ASYLUM.

If county supervisors take heed to what A. O. Wright says, considerable money may be saved. In the course of years many patients have come to the county asylum without commitment papers. Several, Mr. Wright declares, should be supported by the state, whereas they are now charged to Rock. All these cases should be investigated, and the asylum records brought down to date.

Mr. Wright has many kind words to say of the new asylum. He considers the institution a model, and points out that profit to the county may be expected through its construction, whereas the old building would have brought nothing but increased expense. Rock county tax payers will never see the day when they will not be glad the new buildings were erected.

PEPPER THE STARVER

Senator Pepper will keep his ear down to the ground a long time if he waits for cheers on his declaration that, "farmers could starve the country if they planted nothing for a year." The trouble with Pepper's idea is that it would make crops bigger than ever. Not one farmer in ten would stick to the arrangement were it effected and the other nine would plant more than ever, so as to get the benefit of high prices. As the St. Louis Globe Democrat suggests this thing has been tried in cotton within a few years. The planters have met and resolved on a reduced acreage. Nearly every planter trusted to his neighbor for the reduction, while, for himself, he planted more liberally than ever.

HAD A FIGHT.

In the great Quay-Hastings fight in Pennsylvania Quay seems to be coming out ahead. It is hard to tell whether or not Quay's victory will have any effect on Cameron's future. Quay's republican enemies say a vote for Quay is a vote for Cameron's reelection, while Quay and his friends say Cameron is not involved in this fight. If Quay's triumph means another term for Cameron it is a calamity for the republican party, but if it does not touch Cameron it is of no particular consequence to the party.

NIGHT READING.

A writer in "Grange Homes," a rural journal, says:
Some housekeepers have the very good habit of reserving the last half hour before retiring for reading the daily paper.
It is a custom not confined to women, this reading after the cares of the day are past. Still, women are most under its sway, and women are the ones who do the buying for the family. That explains in a measure why advertisements in an evening paper produce such ample returns.

Spain has no reason to complain of Cuba's rights as a belligerent are recognized on this side of the water. On July 8, 1861, Spain issued a proclamation of neutrality in regard to the American civil war, and acknowledged the Confederates as belligerents. This was before the battle of Bull Run, and England had taken the same action two months earlier.

During a period of twenty seven years previous to 1892, under republican protection, the national interest bearing debt decreased at the annual average rate of $64,714,884. During the past two years under democratic tom-foolery, the national debt was increased at an annual average of $65,582,865.

Nothing the matter with Senator Elkin's head. He has sense enough to remark that "the republican party will have no walkover in 1896," and to warn off those visionaries who think "anybody can win."

If free coinage at a ratio of 16 to 1 is a good thing, why wouldn't a ratio of 8 to 1 or 2 to 1 be a still better thing.

Do You Want One.

We have three second hand buggies in good repair for sale and a 1 we care to get out of them is cost to us. They go at from $5 to $20. Bargains if you need a buggy. F. A. Taylor.

Clearing Clear of Sin.
Milkman—Johnny, did you put water in the milk this morning?
New Assistant—Yes, sir.
"Don't you know that is wicked, Johnny?"
"But you told me to mix water with the milk."
"Yes, but I told you to put the water in first and pour the milk into it. Then, you see, we can tell the people we never put water in our milk."
Texas Siftings.

A Fair Partnership.
Stranger—Boy, there's a dime museum somewhere around here, I understand. Do you know where it is?
Boy—Yessir. I wish I had a dime ter get in.
Stranger—Well, you conduct me to the place, and I'll give you the dime.
Boy—All right. That's a fair partnership. You furnish th' capital, an' I furnish th' brains.—N. Y. Weekly.

Has It Come to This?
We have boiled the hydrant water.
We have sterilized the milk.
We have strained the prowling microbes through the finest kind of silk.
We have bought and we have borrowed every patent health device.
And at last the doctor tells us That we've got to boil the tea.
—Chicago Record.

TOO MUCH COMPETITION.

Tillie—What are the wild waves saying?
Willie—Can't hear them. The bathing suits are too loud.—St. Louis Republic.

Disappointment.
"He comes not."
The forsaken bride wept amid the gorgeousness of the wedding feast.
"He comes not," she wailed.
They tried to tell her that he was unworthy, but she heard them not.
"My dreams of wedded bliss—"
Her voice rose to a shriek.
"—are shattered. I will have to keep right on wearing shoes two sizes too small for me."—Detroit Tribune.

An Active Woman.
Husband (breathlessly)—I must rush off on very short notice, for an extended trip, and I can take you along if you can get ready. Do you think you can do it in two hours and a quarter?
Wife—Easily. I can pack the trunk in five minutes, and that will leave me two hours and ten minutes to dress.—N. Y. Weekly.

No Danger.
Mrs. Smythe—There's our Johnnie, now, without a single thing to do; the devil will surely find work for his idle hands!
Smythe—Don't you worry! Even the devil couldn't get a hustle on that boy.—Truth.

She Was Particular.
"Let us go to the beach and bathe," said Mrs. Wiffells to Mrs. Taddells.
"Thank you, but I prefer not. I think it is unsanitary under present conditions. When individual oceans are provided for bathers I will go in."—Judge.

No Comparison.
Cleverton—Do you regard an engagement as serious as marriage?
Dashaway—More so, old man. The most serious thing I ever did was to become engaged to three girls at the same time.—Brooklyn Life.

How the Trouble Began.
"I wouldn't wear bloomers for anything," said the thin girl.
"Neither would I—if I were you," replied the plump girl.
And that's why they do not speak now.—Chicago Post.

A Slight Alteration.
Ada—Do you think the word "obey" should be omitted from the marriage service?
Ida—Omitted? Certainly not. It should merely be transferred to the other party to the contract.—Truth.

Its Coming.
We haven't the slightest doubt but that this fall will see a very good trade in buggies. In anticipation of this fact we are filling our repository to overflowing with buggies of all kinds and description, from the finest of surreys, phaetons, buggies and road wagons to the more moderate in price. We are prepared to sell anyone that has an inkling of an idea of purchasing. We have a stock that cannot be equaled in this part of the country. Don't miss seeing it. F. A. Taylor.

I Look Youself In The Face.
They tell of a man who was so limber that he could lean so far back that by looking between his legs he could look right into his own face. Maybe you don't believe it. Suppose we told you that we paid 65 cents on the dollar for part of our goods and full prices for part and then we told you day after day that we were selling them at 50 cents. Don't you think it would be a good thing to get a good square look into our own faces and ask ourselves if we believe what we are telling? Brown Bros. & Lincoln.

CITY DADS GO AWAY
IN A SPECIAL CARWILL SEE KENOSHA'S NEW WATER WORKS SQUIRT.

Delegation Will Be Back In Due Time To Attend the Common Council Meeting Tonight and Vote On the Uniform Charter and City Fund Ordinance—City News.

DADS GONE—Janesville city dads, or a portion of them, whizzed out to the Bower City in a special car this morning. In the delegation was Mayor Baines, father of the city, Alderman S. C. Burnham, one of the fathers of the Second ward, Aldermen F. S. Winslow, ditto of the Third ward, Ald. H. C. Stearns, ditto of the First ward, and Chief Engineer John C. Spencer, father of the fire department. Add to the officials Civilians John M. Whitehead, A. A. Jackson, E. M. Hyzer and P. J. Moust, and you have the party to a man. They left in a special car on the Chicago & North-western and were bound for Kenosha where they will see the new water works tested with many mighty squirts. The party were the guests of Contractor Wheeler of Beloit, who has just completed the Kenosha system and desired that some of the residents of his native county see the pressure put on. The delegation will be home in time to attend the meeting of the council tonight, as their presence will be quite necessary. The principal business that will come before them when they return will probably be the ordinance in relation to the adoption of a part of the uniform charter which City Attorney McElroy will present. No action can be taken on the charter proper, but the ordinance will prepare the way for the final action at the second regular meeting after the session tonight. A provision is also appended giving the city the power to designate a city depository in order that interest on the city funds may be collected. This will result in a saving of probably $800 or $1000 a year.

NEW LAW FIRM—J. L. Mahoney and John J. Cunningham have formed a partnership under the firm name of Mahoney & Cunningham. Mr. Mahoney is one of the brightest attorneys of the state, while Mr. Cunningham is a graduate of the state university and the university law school, and has had marked success in his chosen profession. The two will make a strong team. Many friends will wish them success, and The Gazette is glad to voice that sentiment.

Did you ever have them come your way, good and hard? You haven't any idea what a satisfaction it is to know that people understand and appreciate efforts for their good. We had a tremendously large stock of shoes when we reduce prices along the line to half and still have a good assortment. 50 cents on the dollar are popular prices. Becker & Woodruff.

DIRECTORS CHOSEN—Dr. W. H. Judd, Archie Reid, E. W. Lowell and S. B. Lewis became directors of the Rock County Building and Loan Association at the meeting held last evening. The reports showed ten and one-half per cent. profit per annum since the organization of the association.

TUG-OF-WAR—A tug-of-war team willing to meet all comers has been arranged in the city, and will pull at the A. O. H. picnic on the 27th. Officer Hogan, Dr. E. D. Roberts, James Brown, Daniel Leary, Dennis Morrissey and Sheriff W. H. Appleby compose the team.

RECEPTION—Invitations have been issued for a reception to be given by Mrs. S. B. and Mrs. F. F. Lewis at the Court street home of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Lewis, on Wednesday, August 21, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

SURPRISED—A large number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Astin 7 Prospect avenue, surprised them in honor of Mr. Astin's fiftieth birthday yesterday and all had a pleasant time.

OURSHOE STOCK IS MADE UP OF THE kind of shoes you all want to buy. That's the reason we have them. We know the prices you like, and for that reason we made them. Becker & Woodruff.

PROFITS GONE—A local restaurant man who ran a stand at the track, race week, made the discovery this morning that a dozen boxes of ten cent cigars were sold for five cents.

SHOP REBUILT—The remodeling of the Burns Carriage Factory has been begun. A. C. Kruger, who has the contract, expects to have it completed in two weeks.

WELL WORKED—Between Street Commissioner Watsons crew, and the new steam roller, West Milwaukee street was well looked after this morning.

COLD BREAKFAST—The dining car crew on the Northwestern had plenty of time to get breakfast this morning, as the vestibule was five hours late.

BIG ENGINES—Ninety-five ton hog engines passed through the city this morning on the Northwestern road, bound for Duluth and Iron Range.

SCRAPED PEARL STREET—The road scraper was pressed into service along Pearl street, much improving that thoroughfare.

BEER—Janesville people must like beer. Three carloads a week comes here from Milwaukee each week on an average.

ON Friday, August 16, every pair of hosiery in our stock: men's, women's and children's, will be offered at 33 1/3 per cent discount. Everybody who wears hose should lay in a few pairs.

We throw off for this day one-third of the price. Bort, Bailey & Co.

ON Friday Aug. 16 we shall place on sale for sale for one day our entire stock of hosiery at 33 1/3 per cent discount, at one third off from price. This brings 50 cent hose down to 33 cents and 25 cents hose to 17 cents. Bort, Bailey & Co.

G. R. McWILLIAMS has secured the refreshment privilege for the Caledonian games, while N. B. Robinson will run the refreshment privilege at the bicycle races.

BIG ROLLER TESTED
AND DID GOOD WORKNEW MACHINE WAS GIVEN A TRIAL THIS MORNING.

The Scheme Is To Loosen Up the Roadway and Then Pack It Down Again—D. D. Bennett Will Be the Engineer—No Place Yet Purchased For Its Storage.

The new street roller, the big machine upon which Janesville people hang their hopes for better highways, had its first trial this morning, and seemed to do excellent work. The test was made on West Milwaukee street between Academy and Pleasant streets, and a good sized crowd saw the test. The roller arrived two or three days ago, but was not fired up until the arrival of the engineer and expert that the Pitts Company agreed to send to tell the local authorities how to make it work. They arrived last night, and the first fire was kindled under the boiler this morning. No more unfavorable a place could have been found in town than the piece of roadway selected for the test; and if the machine will make a good street out of that stretch of alternate mud-hole and dust producer, it will certainly do excellent work on highways more adapted to its use.

When the steam gauge showed sufficient pressure to do the work the engineer went to work. It was rather an odd looking piece of mechanism on which he handled the throttle, but it obeyed his hand like a docile family horse. It looked something like a traction engine out in two in the middle and then welded on to a pair of mammoth steel cheese boxes, set side by side. A big chain ran around the two steel rollers and connected with the steering wheel that was set under the cab, at the rear end.

Moved On Easily.

When the gentleman with the strong right arm and blue overalls twisted up this wheel, the massive roller turned as gracefully as milady's bicycle, changing its course without a jar.

A cab covered the whole of the machine and nothing projected above the roof except the smokestack. Two rows of eight-inch steel spikes ornamented the tires of the driving wheels and the ground that the machine passed over looked as though some wooden-legged giant had traveled that way and plowed the earth savagely with his iron-shod stumps.

The first work done was to "spike up the road" by running the heavy machine back and forth. Two long lines of earth were loosened by the spikes at each trip and soon the whole street surface had been thoroughly stirred up. Then four horses were attached to a harrow that was freighted with railroad iron and the loosened earth and stones were thoroughly mixed. This operation was also brought the stones and gravel to the surface and put the surface in good shape for the roller. After this is done, it is calculated to wet down the earth, remove the spikes from the wheels and pack the whole mass solid by running the sixteen ton machine backwards and forwards. Another soaking followed and the second rolling is calculated to pack the whole mass down as solid as the virgin rock and smooth as a table top.

Conditions Not Favorable

While the roller seemed to do excellent work at the test this morning, conditions were not very favorable. The street selected for the trial has always been a mud hole in wet weather and about the best dust producer in town when it is dry. On the north side of the road there was a streak of gravel and "hardhead" stones, but in the center and at the south side, eight inches of soft earth covered the gravel that was originally the road bed. The long spikes simply stirred up the black dirt without bringing anything harder to the surface and as stones and gravel that will crush and pack are necessary for successful work, the loose earth will have to be removed. The statement has been made that the big machine would ruin the crosswalks, but this did not seem to be the case at the test. The spikes made the sparks fly when the machine mounted the stone walks, and chipped pieces from the flags, but if the spikes had not been in use, the crosswalks would not have been very materially injured. The machine could be started, stopped or reversed very easily and worked without apparent jar or strain upon the machinery. It ran backwards as smoothly as it moved ahead, and in fact appeared to handle with the greatest of ease.

D. D. Bennett To Run It.

The council committee, in whose hands the matter lay, began casting about for a competent engineer to handle the machine, almost before it arrived in Janesville. After talking the matter over for some time, the committee decided on D. D. Bennett, and offered him the position. Mr. Bennett has not yet been made a definite proposition, and as yet no agreement has been made, but Mr. Bennett signified his willingness to accept it if the arrangements were satisfactory.

"The roller is all right," said Chairman Hemming of the highway and street committee, as he watched it work. "Of course this is not an A1 street to work on, but it will fix even this one all right. A stretch that has been graveled before is the best adapted to its use. On Jackson street, for instance, it would be especially effective. No, we have not yet provided a place to keep it, but D. D. Bennett will be the engineer."

ASK A DAY'S OUTING FOR A NICKEL

Folks Think They Can Ride on the Car All Day For One Fare.

"We have to deal with some queer people," said the conductor on a street car the other day. "Some of them will get on the car the first thing in the morning and want to ride all day on one fare. There are plenty of people in Janesville," he continued, "who think that a five cent ticket includes a day's outing, when in reality it is only good for one trip."

RIOT TACTICS TRIED
BY SOLDIER BOYSLIVELY STREET DRILL FOR SCATTERING MOBS.

Gage, Root, Hanson, Cook and Baldwin Lead the Light Infantry In Target Practice—Challenge Out For a Tug of War—How Militia Fare.

Camp Douglas, Aug. 14.—An interesting feature of camp life is the riot drill. This drill is based on four company battalions, and consists of changes of front, marching to the flanks and the like. An undrilled body of men would have absolutely no chance of success in a contest with a battalion well handled according to the "street riot tactics."

The five highest scores of Company A., Tuesday are:

	Fixed Dis.	Skirmish.	Total.
Private Gage	147	15	162
Private Root	123	29	152
Lieutenant Hanson	128	20	148
Private Cook	118	20	138
Sergeant Baldwin	103	23	126

Gage, Root, Hanson and Cook will shoot in the competition for places on the regimental team.

Every member of the company was compelled to shoot on the range. Those who could not make twenty out of a possible fifty points on the two and three hundred yard ranges were dropped out and placed in the "infant class." The rest finished on the other ranges.

Sergeant Nelthorp, aimed at the target in the volley firing, but a falling branch of oak about forty rods distant, told the result of the shot.

Lieutenant Rooney says that his gun kicks harder than a Black Hawk mule.

Private Gage holds the record for eating potatoes, and no one dare to challenge The Gazette correspondent to a pie contest.

Ed Miller was too lazy to walk his beat, so had a yellow dog do it for him.

Private Heise and R. Smith arrived in camp late last night.

Patsy Brannigan must have had several whirligigs in his head last night, he tried to halt a tree, while on guard.

The regulars defeated Company C's men in a game of base ball, score 6 to 2.

We have challenged any company in camp for a tug of war contest, but our big men make everybody wilt.

The Third regiment, from Fort Snelling gave us a fine exhibition drill in their parade last evening.

Company A were applauded for their fine work on parade. The line as it passed the reviewing officer was straight as a farm gate. C. L. HANSON.

THE BALLAD OF A BOTANIST.

Near the quiet little village of a trim New England town
 Life the peaceful, pleasant acres of a farm of fair renown,
 Where the fond pursuit of botany
 Doth banish all monotony
 And taint the faded cheek a ruddy brown.

Here Euphorbia cyparissias waves a welcome unto all,
 Ampelopsis quinquefolia spreads its mantle o'er the wall,
 While from Salix babingtonia
 And Cydonia japonica
 With cheerful chirp the wrens and robins call.

Leonurus and Linaria lead our steps along the lane
 Where Lilium and Trillium and Uvularia reign,
 And Asclepias cornuti—
 Good for "greens" if not for beauty,
 Like Urtica, though its touch entaileth pain.

Chrysanthemum leucanthemum the grassy fields adorn,
 The fragrance of Trifolium on every breeze is borne
 And the tall Verbascum thapsus
 In every rapture wraps us,
 As its kindly candle kindles in the morn.

In the woods the Anemone meoiosa you will find,
 Mitchellia, Tiarella and the lithe Celastrus twined,
 And Monotropa hypopitys—
 A very spooky crop it is—
 That may scare the superstitiously inclined.

There are many more that flourish on this fair and fertile farm;
 I should greatly like to name them all, and catalogue each charm—
 The curious Cruciferae, umbrellared Umbelliferae
 The laughing Labiatae, the glorious Aggregatae,
 Rosaceae, Malvaceae—but do not take alarm,
 For I'm only just a botanist, and I really mean no harm.

HIS FAILURE.

I should never have known that he was a failure if he had not told me so himself. Most assuredly he had not the air of one. For his coats were always fashionably cut, and his taste in liquors was almost as delicate as my own, and he could afford to gratify it far more frequently.

Such was the testimony of appearance, and so far as I knew his history it pointed to the same conclusion. He had been, I understood, a writer, like myself, though even less successful, and then "fortunate speculations" had enabled him to retire from a calling which he found more honorable than remunerative and spend his afternoons in playing billiards at the club.

And yet Everard Deane esteemed himself a failure. He told me so emphatically one evening at the hour when truth "peeps over the glass's edge when dinner's done."

"It was all that confounded Stock Exchange," he murmured, gazing gloomily into a glass of green chartreuse.

I begged him to accept my cordial congratulations. "It's a better way to fail than most," I said. For I had known so many who failed upon the Stock Exchange and lived happily—drinking champagne and driving about in broughams—ever afterward.

But Everard Deane protested.

"I don't mean what you mean," he said. "I didn't lose money on the Stock Exchange. I made it—lots of it. That is the mischief of it. That is precisely why I am a failure."

He looked gloomier than ever as he spoke and ordered a second green chartreuse.

Jerking his head so as to indicate a man at the farther end of the room—a well dressed man, excessively bejeweled—with whom, half an hour since, he had cordially shaken hands, he whispered:

"That is the man who has been my evil genius. You know him?"

"I think so. It's Morrison Parker, the great financier, isn't it?"

"It is, and Morrison Parker, the great financier, has been my evil genius. It's a foolish story, but I sometimes like to tell it after dinner. A brandy and soda?"

I accepted, and when the waiter had brought the glasses Everard Deane resumed:

"I was an author, you know—a young author—with great aims and high ambitions. I made enough money to live upon by writing for the papers, but I looked upon literature, not as a trade, but as an art. I was a member of the Waste Paper club, where all of us professed to take the same artistic views of life and letters and sat up till the small hours discussing them through a haze of tobacco smoke and steaming grog. I was very happy there until the day came when Morrison Parker joined the club. He owned a newspaper—The Stock Exchange Recorder, I think he called it—and therefore he was technically qualified. But when he came and sat up with us in the small hours he did not talk literature. He talked finance."

"Yet the two subjects may occasionally have relations with each other," I suggested.

"Precisely. That is the point that Morrison Parker used to insist upon, especially when he had had a good day and made us drink champagne with him to celebrate his luck. 'Why do so many half educated city men profess to look down on authors?' he would ask. And then he would answer his own question. 'Because there isn't one author in 500 who knows how to make £1,000 a year. That has always been the great reproach of letters, from Dr. Johnson's time to ours. It's high time to put an end to that reproach. Why don't you fellows do it?'"

I sighed, wishing that I knew how to put an end to it myself, and then I asked:

"And did your friend descend from the general to the particular and tell you how it could be done?"

"He did. He told us all to open a speculative account in Louisvilles."

"Louisvilles? That is the name of an American railroad, I believe?"

"It is. And opening a speculative account means buying the shares without being able to pay for them, selling them at a profit and putting the difference in your pocket. Simple, isn't it?"

"Very simple," I said. "The merest child's play provided that the shares go up."

"Oh, they went up all right, and I did the others that I bought afterward. I've never lost a shilling through following Morrison Parker's tips. I can complain of that."

"And yet you call the man your evil genius?"

"Yes. I still call the man my evil genius because I lost my soul through him—my soul as an artist, that was much to me."

I started. I could not understand. But, with an impetuous impulse, Everard Deane hastened to make his meaning.

"You call yourself an artist, and do not understand? Do you imagine an artist can meddle with these speculations and not find his soul lost by them? Do you suppose that he can sit down quietly to toil for gains indefinitely deferred, while he knows that a sudden turn of the market may put hundreds in his pocket? No, my friend, it is not possible. Why, does he do? Why, he buys every edition of the evening paper to see the prices. He runs into his club to watch the tape. He drives up to the city in working hours to ask his broker whether he ought not to sell. That is how it was in my case. That is how it must be in every case. My balance at the bank was growing, but while it grew my soul—my artist's soul, in which I gloried so—was dying, crushed out of its bright existence by the dead weight of material cares. And so things went until I stood, as it were, at the parting of the ways and swore that I would make my choice."

"Your choice?"

"My choice between the artistic and the material life. I meant to make it dramatically too. There was still enough of the artist left in me for that. It was at midnight, in my chambers in the Temple. I took the manuscript of my half finished novel—the novel that was to make me famous—from the desk and placed it on the table. Beside it I laid a heap of share certificates, and transfer forms and contract notes. Between the two piles there stood a lighted candle. One of them was to be burned to ashes in its flame—one of them, and at this solemn hour I was to determine which, and, by determining, decide the whole course of my future life."

He paused. I had to press him before he would proceed.

"And then you burned?"

"Neither," was his unexpected answer. "Neither, for I could not decide. My novel went back into the drawer it came from, to wait there till the old joy in the higher life came back to me. And that joy never came. Even to this hour it has not come. I look back to the old days. I long for them. But I know quite well that they will not return to me. The greed for gain, its ceaseless worries and anxieties, has killed my soul, and that is why I tell you that I am a failure."

There was a melancholy, at once incredible and convincing, in his accents. Unless there were a woman in the case, I would not have believed it possible for a man so well to do to look so miserable. I sought to say something that might lift him out of his despondency.

"Failure or no failure, at least you can go to Monte Carlo in the winter," I suggested.

"I know. I'm going next week with Morrison Parker," Everard Deane replied.

And then he shook his head slowly and shrugged his shoulders gloomily, as though to say that the joy of sojourning on the Riviera while we were toiling in the fogs was nothing to the price that he had had to pay for it.

And as I drove home that night to Whitcomb street I tried to persuade myself that he was right.—Francis Gribble in New Budget.

FRECKLES.

Women who have suffered year after year from these annoying blemishes, freckles—who have seen them come under the rays of the summer sun and disappear when the yearly reign of King Sol is over—are illogical enough to consider the glowing monarch accountable for our annual crop of freckles. All sorts of reasons have been given for these annoying pigmentary discolorations. One well known dermatologist declares they are the result of too much iron in the blood, and that the sun's rays bring the iron stained spots to the surface, just as they do to a bit of cloth which has come in contact with iron and then is put in the sunlight. In other words, that freckles are iron rust.

Professor Hebra of Vienna, who is accounted the greatest authority of his century, insists, on the contrary, that the sun does not produce freckles. He says: "It is a fact that lentigo (freckles) neither appears in the newly born nor in children under the age of 6 or 8 years, whether they run about the whole day in the open air and exposure to the bronzing influence of the sun or whether they remain confined in the darkest room." It is therefore true that neither light nor air nor warmth produces such spots in children."

THE CURIOUS FOSSILS.

Some time ago, in company with a friend, I was searching for fossils among the debris of an abandoned limestone quarry. The owner, hearing us chipping and pounding among the rocks, approached us and inquired what we were looking for. On being answered "fossils," he said: "Fossils? What's them for—to catch fish with?" I do not remember what answer he received, but it is more than probable that some of the fossils would have made excellent bait—say some of the smaller trilobites—could they only have been used in time, but, unfortunately, we were a few thousand decades late.

Another time, while wandering over the rugged Devonian slopes of the Helanderberg mountains, we came across a native who gravely informed us that the curious, crooked fossil shells (zaphrentis) there abounding were petrified heifers' horns.—Archaeologist.

BEFORE A SCHOOL JUSTICE.

The Bride Didn't Work and Her Confession Was a Failure.

Something dreadful had happened at the Queensville district school. May Greene, the belle of the village, had smuggled her Sunday sash out of the bureau, and "unbeknownst to her mother" had worn it to school. Her triumph, however, was short-lived. She had hung the sash most carefully on a hook in the cloak room while she ran out, at recess, for a good romp. On her return she was dismayed to find that it had been cut in two pieces. Every scholar was carefully questioned, but no one, of course, knew anything about it. The teacher accordingly announced that when the afternoon session should open she would lay all lessons aside and hold a court of investigation. She herself would be the judge. May Greene should be the plaintiff, and every scholar in turn should come up into a witness box, rigged up for the occasion, and tell exactly what he knew about the matter. She also said that if any one would confess his wrongdoing before the opening of court he would be pardoned and all proceedings stopped.

Two guilty boys, discarded beaux of the gay coquette, were now pale with dismay. They had told untruths when privately questioned, and now they feared that they would not be able to brave them out before the awful court ordeal—especially since it had begun to be whispered around that they knew more of the matter than had at first appeared. They, therefore hit upon the following expedient. The youngest child in the school, little Annie Cork, was the pet of the county. If she now could only be induced to confess to the cutting of the sash, surely she would be pardoned on account of her popularity. She was therefore beset by the guilty youngsters, who, by dint of dire threats and large bribes, and by urging confession upon her as a duty, finally secured her bewildered consent "to confess."

When the afternoon bell rang the scholars came in promptly, looking askance at the awful witness-box and at the mutilated finery floating out from the teacher's desk. The judge was about to open court when in came the criminals triumphantly leading the innocent child between them. They informed the judge that Annie Cork had come to confess, and officially placing her in the witness-box, they withdrew to their seats. The child's helpless attitude was too much for the tender-hearted judge, who took her by the hand and said gently: "Well, dear, have you really come to confess?"

"Yeth," she faltered, oppressed by the earnest stillness in the room; but, gaining courage from the judge's kindly manner, "Yeth, teacher—I th come to confeth—I th come to confeth that I didn't do it."—Philadelphia Times.
